The Authentic Brand YOU

Are you looking for ways to more deeply engage your leaders? Individuals are more engaged when they bring their full self to work. Studies show that authenticity is the key to unlocking executive presence, influence, and power within organizations. This workshop is suitable for both male and female leaders. Participants will:

- Discover and develop their personal leadership brand
Determine their purpose, strengths and core values
- Learn tools to share their brand powerfully to create fulfilling career paths
- Develop stronger accountability to manage their career paths

Ask Powerfully For What You Want

As organizations move toward more matrix structures, leaders need to learn how to influence powerfully across the organization – across functions, geographies, and hierarchies. In order to reach our potential, collaboration is key at all levels of the organization – with those we supervise and those we do not. During this workshop, participants work through a specific influencing goal they have chosen and learn a five-step process to accomplish their goal. Participants will:

- Identify personal limiting beliefs and find new empowering beliefs
- Learn five different influencing styles and when they are appropriate
- Practice making their ask
- Develop a personal action plan and accountability
- Make a commitment to apply this five-step model for influencing powerfully

The Neuroscience of Cultivating Courage

It's been shown that courage and risk-taking are essential to career advancement. These skills are also essential to create a culture of innovation within organizations. How can courage and risk-taking be cultivated in a corporate environment? In this workshop, Henna outlines a five-step confidence building process that promotes taking the purposeful steps toward reaching goals. Attendees will:

- Identify a specific area where they need to take risk
- Understand the neuroscience of risk-taking
- Complete a self-assessment of their risk tolerance
- Learn and apply a five step model to practice courage in their current situation
- Create an action plan and accountability

Leading Powerfully Within Change

In today's fast-paced and dynamic business environment people are constantly tasked to do more with fewer resources and shorter timelines. The most effective leaders are those who learn how to flow and influence effectively within high change and high uncertainty environments. This interactive session is designed to help a team going through change to focus on goals rather than fear, to create trust, collaboration and allow change to flow smoothly among organizations. Participants will:

- Learn to identify ways to be creative, engaged and find opportunities in a changing environment
- Develop self-awareness tools to help their response to challenging situations
- Practice a five-step model to influence powerfully in chaos
- Create a personal action plan

The Transformational Leader Within

There is a transformational leader within each of us. Now more than ever, organizations need transformational leaders who inspire, engage others and create environments of increased innovation, ownership, and creativity. This session introduces the four components of transformational leadership. Participants will:

- Improve self-awareness through self-assessment
- Learn the four traits of transformational leaders and determine what inspires each of them to lead
- Identify an area where they are inspired to create transformation within their organization
- Develop an action plan to align their transformational idea with organizational goals
